The Cotton Markets.

The Cotton Markets.

New York, May 23.—The leading fenture of interest in to-day's cotton market was a marked widening of the difference between the May and August prices. This was due to light liquidation of the former by disarmined longs and a spurt of covering by August shorts. The market opened quiet, with prices 1 to 2 points higher on scattering demand from shorts and the foreign contingent, irspired by good sales of spot cotton at Liverpool and buillish reports from the world's cotton goods markets, Without showing activity, the market fur her improved as the session were on. The close was quiet and steady. May 2 points higher in the way of weather news, the offeral helt, with clear, mild conditions elsewhere.
